3. WHAT IS A COOKIE?

Cookies are small pieces of data that websites store on your device to enhance your browsing experience. They serve various purposes, including:

- Personalization: Remembering your preferences (e.g., language, theme) and tailoring content to your interests.
- Functionality: Enabling features like logins, shopping carts, and saved settings.

4. SESSION COOKIES AND PERSISTENT COOKIES

Session cookies are cookies that last for a session. A session starts when you launch a website or web app and ends when you leave the website or close your browser window. Session cookies contain information that is stored in a temporary memory location which is deleted after the session ends. Unlike other cookies, session cookies are never stored on your device. Therefore, they are also known as transient cookies, non-persistent cookies, or temporary cookies. Typically, session cookies are used to remember what a user put in their basket when browsing a site.

Persistent cookies are cookies that remain on a user's device even after they close their browser. They have an expiration date and can be used to store information that can be accessed across multiple browsing sessions. This information can include login credentials, language preferences, and other customized settings.

5. WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN FIRST AND THIRD-PARTY COOKIES?

First-party cookies are cookies that are set by the site you are visiting and it's only this site that can access and read these cookies.

Third-party cookies are set by someone other than the owner of the site you're visiting. As an example, some pages have content from other sites like YouTube. YouTube may set its own cookies on your browser when you play the video from YouTube. Cookies set by other sites and companies (i.e., third parties) can be used to track you on other sites that use the same third-party service. We may engage third parties to assist with the maintenance, operation, creation, or functionality of our site, e.g., analytics providers and content partners. We grant these third parties access to selected information to perform specific tasks on our behalf.

We are, as a general rule, joint controllers with providers of third-party cookies for the collection of personal data via such cookies and disclosure details to that provider. The provider of third-party cookies is a data controller for the processing of the personal data that is received from us.
